Hi Brian,

Received my SP3 today. Tested it with a trafo - First where it counts: Audio quality is fantastic (as can be expected from Bryston).

It was fun to disconnect 10's of RCA cables and replace them with 3-4 HDMI cables. No analog to pick up hum, no RCA plugs that corrode and require caig gold treatment. A surprise I was not aware that the processor had a web server. Really cool mockup of the device with working buttons – I was able to control it from my laptop.

Overall a very solid machine, well built, functions well, and more importantly, sounds absolutely fantastic, perhaps even better than its predecessor the SP1.7.
