MEMO: Customer Feedback Bryston Model T Loudspeakers

Re: Bryston Loudspeakers

I ended up visiting this room 4 times I think over 3 days...

Here is what I think. First, I think James did an excellent marketing coup by getting possibly the best room at the venue. Bryston, easily had the largest room and they had most if not all their gear there. Obviously, this was strategically done to launch their new speaker, and what a launch!! I am still awestruck by what I heard. These new speakers are simply sonically phenomenal. It will be hard to get a pair... I think Bryston may need to employ a new shift of workers... they are THAT good..

I ran into some people in a couple of other rooms..and in just mentioning speakers, I would ask if they'd heard the new Bryston speaker.. everyone I spoke to said.. AMAZING..!!

On a personal note, I spoke several times with James Tanner and I must admit I truly enjoyed our encounters, not having met James before and only relying what I had read here on AA, I knew he was quite the gentleman and a very down to earth individual, but words don't do justice here. It only took a few moments to be able to share laughs and just have a great time together...

Oh.. and today.. my wife was with me at the show.. and concurred these are indeed good... she jokingly said, the sound doesn't appear to be coming from inside a bucket!!!.. So these are WAF approved!...

Ohh.. MSRP.... $6500..... A true STEAL.. get yours before the price... jumps!!! (just kidding James!!!) This was for me.. the best of TAVES.. and fully deserves...
