SUBJECT: Bryston Model T Speakers – Rich Jackson

April, 2013

I received my Model T's late last Thursday (April 4) and ran them continuously for 3 plus days.

I was pleasantly surprised in the “Bryston” sleeve covering the entire speaker. Upon opening the speakers I mounted the outriggers and placed and fine-tuned their position. I then attached the spikes and leveled them. I replaced some American made 15K speakers and had my doubts about the T's ability to play as well as my replaced speakers. My initial impression was not great, but the T's continued to improve each day.

I put them to the test this morning with the studio version of Dire Straits doing “Telegraph Road”. I have used this cut as a demo for almost 15 years now and hadn't realized that there was bass at the opening of the song. I pushed my 14B to the max streaming through my BDP-1 and they played with authority and wonderful dynamics.

They have the detail without any trace of harshness. It was extremely satisfying to finally push them to their limits. Great image, great off axis response, and a very controlled and physical bottom end.

Yes, I'm very happy with my new Bryston Model T's.
